

THE BUZZ

A FACIAL FOR CHARITY. HONEST Looking to relax with a facial while also giving to a worthy cause, other than your vanity? One Chelsea day spa, face to face nyc, has agreed to donate 10 percent of its proceeds from massages and facials to the HIV/AIDS awareness organization Hope's Voice International on Friday, May 30. The "Day of Hope" event, scheduled to run during the spa's hours of 11 a.m. to 10 p.m., will take the charitable donation from the cost of treatment for customers who schedule a massage or facial and mention the event. Founded by Executive Director Todd Murray, Hope's Voice International is a national HIV and AIDS organization committed to promoting the prevention and education of HIV and AIDS to young adults. "When face to face nyc was asked to help out Hope's Voice International, I thought it would be a wonderful opportunity for us to work towards getting the word out about AIDS awareness and the work of this wonderful organization," said Enrique Ramirez, founder/lead esthetician of the spa, which he opened in 2004 at 20 W. 20th St. The spa will also offering cupcakes donated by Magnolia, free month-long memberships provided by David Barton Gym and a free shot of tequila for patrons "to get them in a relaxing mood," Ramirez added. "If it goes well I want to do it again, maybe in the summertime." A massage plus free liquor and cupcakes? Count us in.
